Strinestown Hotel

The intersection of the Susquehanna Trail and Cemetery Road in Strinestown is the location of the former Strinestown Hotel (second building from right) and the large stone home built in 1868 by George and Lucy Heilman. The Hotel is currently an apartment building and the stone home, after serving as the local grocery store for many years, is a residence. The Susquehanna Trail originally made the left turn onto Cemetery Road, continued past the Strinestown Cemetery and turned right down Hill-N-Dale Road before crossing the Big Conewago Creek into Newberry Township.